

Nicole Evelina is a USA Today bestselling author and biographer living in South Bend, Indiana, who writes historical fiction, non-fiction, and women's fiction. Her books have won more than 50 awards, including four Book of the Year designations. Nicole is now a hybrid author, but was named Missouri's Top Independent Author by Library Journal and Biblioboard as the winner of the Missouri Indie Author Project in 2018. She has been awarded the North Street Book Prize and the Sarton Women's Book Award. One of her novels, Madame Presidentess, was previously optioned for film.

Nicole's most recent books include Sex and the City, a Cultural History (Rowman & Littlefield) and America's Forgotten Suffragists: Virginia and Francis Minor (Globe Pequot), the first biography of this husband/wife suffrage couple.

Forthcoming works include:

- "The Ethics of Writing Guinevere in Modern Historical Fiction," an academic chapter in Ethics in the Arthurian Legend, edited by Melissa Riley Elmes and Evelyn Meyer, to be published by Boydell & Brewer on July 11, 2023.
- Fierce Females on Television: A Cultural History, non-fiction to be published by Rowman & Littlefield on October 15, 2023.
- Catherine's Mercy, historical fiction to be published by Chalice Media Group on November 7, 2023.

Nicole's fiction tells the stories of strong women from history and today, with a focus on biographical historical fiction, while her non-fiction focuses on women's history. Both share the stories of unknown or little-known figures.

She is also a ghostwriter employed by Kevin Anderson and Associates, as well as Gotham Ghostwriters. Nicole's writing has appeared in The Huffington Post, The Hill, The Philadelphia Inquirer, The Independent Journal, Curve Magazine and numerous historical publications.

She is represented by Amy Collins of Talcott Notch Literary. You can find her online at <http://nicoleevelina.com/>.